

SPRINGFIELD

EMT training

Springfield Technical Community College will offer an Emergency Medical Technician training program during the upcoming semester, which begins Jan. 22.

The course consists of 177 hours of lectures and workshops in trauma, medical, behavioral and environmental emergencies, including 28 hours of online instruction and an auto extrication field trip that prepares the student to take the National Certification Examination. The program, based on the Department of Transportation curriculum for Basic Emergency Medical Technician, is approved by the state Office of Emergency Medical Services.

The college is accepting applications. Students have the option of enrolling in day or evening classes. Visit stcc.edu/wd online or call 413-755-4225 to enroll.
